Is Tap to Pay More Secure Than Swiping or Inserting Your Card?

Card Skimmers are a Common Scam

Learn how to make sure your payments are secure.

What are Card Skimmers?

Card skimmers are typically hidden inside of card readers. Card skimmers record and store credit card information and PINs that can be recovered later to create counterfeit duplicates. Fraudsters then use the counterfeit cards to try to spend your money illegally.

How is Tap to Pay Different?

Tap-to-pay does not put your card in contact with card skimmers. When you tap to pay, your card never makes physical contact with the payment terminal's card reader. Instead, it sends a one-time code containing your payment information to a payment processor. When you tap your card, it exchanges a unique, encrypted code instead of your credit card number and billing address.

That makes it extremely difficult, if not impossible, to access someone's credit card information by skimming a contactless card payment. Contactless ATMs work the same way as contactless payments.

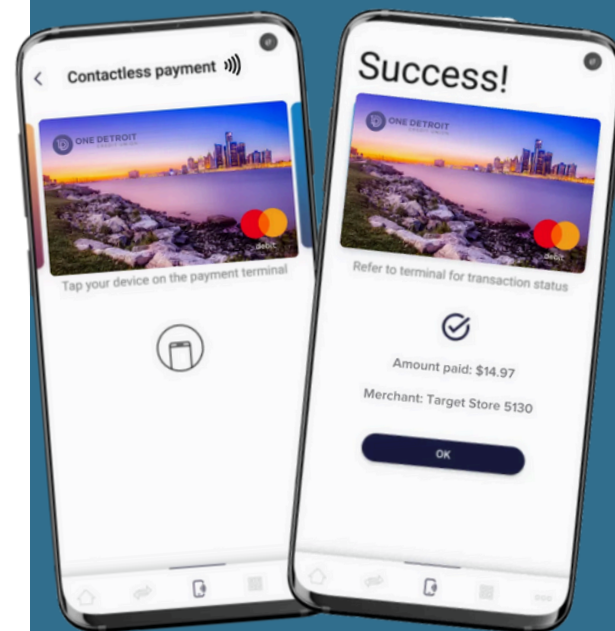

Experts agree that tap-to-pay and chip payments are both more secure than swipe payments. You can make your payments more secure by adding your 1DCU Mastercard debit card to your digital wallet.

Tap & Pay with Confidence

Add your 1DCU debit card to your digital wallet

1. Add your 1DCU Mastercard debit card to your payment-enabled mobile phone or device
2. Look for the Contactless Symbol on the terminal at checkout
3. Hold your phone or device over the symbol to pay
